Price of the German Success at Douaumont Estimated at Not Less Than Army Corps

London, May 25.—Between Avocourt wood and Fort Douaumont, northwest and northeast of Verdun, across a front twenty miles wide, there are a dozen ravines so choked with dead that ghastly barriers are formed by the corpses.

Never before has there been fighting of such ferocity as has been seen during the past week upon the Avocourt hill slopes where half a million German and French soldiers were straining at each other's throats like maniacs.

During the direct attacks, and the counter-attacks of the past three days and nights, it is estimated that the Germans lost a full corps (40,000 men) in dead and wounded. Particularly severe were the German losses around Douaumont, which again is in German hands. With a column dispersed for human life, it is inconceivable, the German legions were sent forward in mass formation, wave upon wave, into the Avocourt hill slopes, where they were mowed down by the French artillery and machine guns.

The thirty artillery duel, which rages night and day over the Verdun front, has made it impossible to remove the dead and some corpses have lain where they fell a fortnight ago.

To the west of Meuse and around Hill 26, where the concentrated fire of hundreds of German guns has been aimed for many days, there are sometimes asked the part of grave diggers, covering the corpses with tons of earth thrown up by their mighty force.

But too often the burning steel, falling among the mounds of dead, tears to atoms the corpses, adding to the horror.

DATE TELS ACCUSES 2 POISONERS OF STROLL OFFICERS TO SEA IN COURT

One of Men Named by Carpenter Denies Kisses and Hugs as Testified to by Detectives

Concord, N. H., May 25.—J. Gould Day, known as correspondent No. 2 in the Carpenter divorce case, took the stand today one-half hour after court opened. He denied that he embraced and kissed Mrs. Carpenter.

Mr. Day told how he and Mrs. Carpenter were in a party at the Macmillan Club, which drank some "dollar cocktails" one afternoon. That evening they strolled to the shore drive and sat in the moonlight until about 1 a. m. Day's testimony on this point was as follows:

"I met Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Moore's sister in a jewelry shop. Mrs. Moore had been somewhat upset over a ring. She was not satisfied with the setting. She objected quite strongly.

"She suggested to the ladies that they ought to go up to the grill and get something to cheer them up. It was agreed. We all went up.

"We were served what they call 'dollar cocktails.' It had mint, pineapple and a cherry in it. Where they got the name I don't know. We all had one anyway. They did not cut a dollar.

"I never had one like it before or since. That night I met Mrs. Carpenter and she was complaining of a headache. I had one, too. I was about going to a drug store.

"After that I suggested we take a little stroll and see the moon and the water. We all took a walk down the shore drive and went to a big building overlooking the water. The moon was beautiful. It was a light rain. There were several people around, mostly maidens. We sat there until 12:30 or 12:45. I then escorted Mrs. Carpenter home and made her good night.

"NO CLIPPING." "August 25, Craig has testified, we learned. Mrs. Carpenter and I. That is a fake. Mrs. Carpenter had told me that she thought a man was watching her. I did not see Mrs. Carpenter either the 23rd or 30th.

"I escorted her to the Globe that night. Between 12:30 and 12:45 I saw Mrs. Carpenter in lobby. I asked her if I might go over and sit down with her on the porch of her cottage. I did not see her. I received some clipping on Page 4, Column 1.

High School Student Declares Parent Obtained Funds to Be Used for Protection Purposes

Recall Turbulent Boyhood of the Accused Dentist at the Trial; Declare He Robbed Employers

By International News Service. New York, May 25.—Two brothers of Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, on trial for his life on a charge of killing his father-in-law, John E. Peck, testified today that Waite had been a thief all his life.

They told how he had stolen from his mother's home when he was a lad, from students when he was in high school and in college and from his employers in South Africa.

Frank Waite was the first brother to testify. As he left the witness stand, Mrs. Clara Louise Peck Waite, wife of the man on trial, hastily arose from her seat beside the jury box and seized the witness' hands. Her lips moved, but her voice was so low that only Frank could hear what she said.

He smiled at her, apparently in understanding and sympathy. "DROWNED KITTEN." Clyde Waite followed his brother on the stand. He recalled Arthur's boyhood, said he was quarrelsome and troublesome, that he never seemed to be able to pass a dog or a cat without pulling its tail, and at one time had drowned a kitten.

At the beginning of court today Attorney Walter Dupey testified that the defense would be insanity.

Dr. Waite entered the courtroom wearing the same look of indifference that he has shown on the preceding days of the trial. Mrs. Margaret Horton, Waite's "studio companion" was not in court.

Warren W. Waite, the defendant's father, followed his sons on the stand. He said that his father in June, 1911, left home and had never been heard of afterward. One of his mother's nieces, he testified, died in an insane asylum in Michigan and went to her grave.

National Board Grants Freedom to Wrecker of Cambridge Bank; Prisoner Now at Greenfield Jail

George W. Coleman, who wrecked the National City Bank of Cambridge, will be a free man before the end of the week, for the National Board of Prisoners has voted to grant him his freedom after serving six years of a fifteen-year Federal prison sentence.

Coleman is now at the Greenfield Jail, where he has been since receiving his sentence in the United States District Court. "Big Bill" Kellner, who for many years was also sentenced for aiding in the wrecking of the bank, is still serving as a Federal prisoner at the Charlestown State Prison.

Coleman was charged with robbing the National City Bank of Cambridge of more than $200,000. "Big Bill" Kellner, who for many years was also sentenced for aiding in the wrecking of the bank, is still serving as a Federal prisoner at the Charlestown State Prison.

United States Marshal Mitchell, who is in charge of all Federal prisoners in this State, stated to the AMERICAN today that Coleman had been paroled and that he would probably be freed within the next forty-eight hours.

"The story that Coleman is to be freed is true," said Marshal Mitchell. "I have not as yet received the official communication from Washington, but the National Board of Prisoners has granted the parole."

TEST "BIG BILL'S" EYES. "Early this week the National Board granted the parole. There is a lot of red tape in the granting of these paroles, and this is slowly being unwound. I expect the official communication from Washington any day, and is just waiting to leave to give the official word."

"Big Bill" Kellner is still in Charlestown, and I expect he will not receive a parole. His wife was in the next forty-eight hours."

AUSTRIANS SLACKEN ATTACK

Rome, May 25.—The Austrian offensive against the Italians has temporarily diminished in intensity, the War Office states today. The official communique says:

The intensity of the Austrian offensive has temporarily diminished. The Italians have been obliged to abandon a few advanced positions of strategic value. Only a small train has been given up and now the main defensive line runs through the north of Asiago and Arco. The withdrawal was effected because of the heavy artillery fire of the enemy. The Austrian attacks have been carried out with great violence, but the high command is sufficiently confident that the hostile thrust will be stemmed.

Austrians Take 25,000 Prisoners

Vienna, May 25.—The new Italian line runs just north of Arco and Asiago and is about eight miles within the Italian wall. Many days ago, when the Italians could not move in their flight, have fallen into the hands of the Austro-Hungarian soldiers. The number of Italian prisoners taken in the last eleven days of fighting was approximately 25,000.

Germany Must Keep
Belgium for Trade

Amsterdam, May 25.—Count Ernst zu Reventlow, the Prussian ambassador, continues his campaign against the idea of restoring Belgium. He says: "It is a well-known fact that before the war Belgium used to earn enormous sums from Germany by her transit trade. It is, therefore, intelligible that she should desire to keep the source of income and for possible enlarge it with the help of her army."

WAR PRISONER ASKS BOOKS HERE

William C. Lane, the Harvard University librarian, has received a letter from an Austrian army officer, a prisoner at Scutari, Russia, asking Mr. Lane to send the writer four German books, to be returned when the prisoner is released. The books are: "Menschliche Freiheit," "Recht," "Kirchenrecht," and "Recht." These books are set in the Harvard library. Mr. Lane says that if any one having any of these works in willing to forward them he will furnish the prisoner's name and address.

WAR SUMMARY

The official Paris report today on the fighting at Verdun admits another German gain east of the Meuse. The Teutons, who had retaken Fort Douaumont—or what is left of that position—as told in yesterday's reports, launched a vigorous night attack north of the Heudremont forest, between Douaumont and Pepper Hill. The Germans gained a foothold, according to the French statement, in the French trenches.

The only infantry activity west of the Meuse in the night was a grenade attack east of Cumieres village which "made progress" for the French.

There was a continuous night artillery duel on both sides of the Meuse.

The Austro-Hungarian drive against Italy has now thrust itself nearly eight miles across the Italian frontier between the Asiatic and the Sugana valleys, with the Austro-Hungarians keeping up unabated pressure. The latest official statement from Vienna says that, in addition to the territory covered, the advance has resulted in the capture of 24,000 Italians, 251 cannon, 101 machine guns and 16 bomb throwers.

Rome maintains that Italian evacuations and retreats are "orderly," but in the same statement admits that they had to destroy artillery which they did not have time to withdraw.

The new Italian line, according to Vienna report, now lies just north of Arco and Asiago. Arco is only twenty miles from Vienna, the important railway centre of the district of that name.

No material change is reported from the Russian and Mesopotamian fronts.

ROOSEVELT STARTS WEST NEXT SUNDAY TO FINISH CAMPAIGN

New York, May 25.—Having gone into the stronghold of the party at Detroit last Friday and made his campaign headquarters at St. Louis, Colonel Roosevelt will now move on to the German population of St. Louis.

Announcement was made today that he has accepted an invitation to deliver an address on the current issues before the City Club of that city at noon on May 31.

The selection of a topic has been left to the Colonel. There is reason to believe Mr. Roosevelt will now move on to the German population of St. Louis.

His St. Louis address will follow immediately after his Memorial Day address in Kansas City, and in all probability will be his last public appearance before the meeting of the Chicago convention. His supporters, therefore, are counting upon the St. Louis declaration as a final pronouncement before he leaves his case in the hands of the men who will select the candidate.

STARTS WEST SUNDAY. Colonel Roosevelt will depart for Kansas City late Sunday afternoon, stopping in Chicago for a few hours Monday night. Saturday, therefore, made his last public appearance before the meeting of the Chicago convention. His supporters, therefore, are counting upon the St. Louis declaration as a final pronouncement before he leaves his case in the hands of the men who will select the candidate.

The delegation will be headed by the Seventh Regiment Band, and will include among its members Charles H. Bonaparte, former Attorney-General, Charles S. Bruce, a member of the Roosevelt Cabinet and Ambassador to Turkey in the Taft administration; Hugh Chalmers, automobile manufacturer, of Detroit; and Henry B. Joy, president of another big motor concern, in the same city. Richard A. Hark, the Rev. J. L. Bedford, Frank B. Rowland, James C. Garfield, and W. W. Hoffman, Ray E. Price, Major Heisterkamp, William Rogers Thayer and Louis K. Wright.

Among the Colonel's callers yesterday were Robert Bacon, State Senator of Bingham, of Oregon, who declared Roosevelt would carry the State; J. C. Montgomery, Lemuel H. Galt, the Colonel declined to take politics and went back to Oyster Bay at 6 o'clock, after being cheered by a big crowd which gathered in front of his office at Fourth avenue to see him board his motor car.

ROBIN IS SELECTED.

Raymond Robin, of Chicago, will be temporary chairman of the Progressive national convention. He will deliver the keynote speech June 7. Mr. Robin was chosen for this duty by the Progressive national executive committee yesterday. It is understood the choice met with the hearty approval of Colonel Roosevelt, with whom Robin has been politically associated for years. G. K. Davis of New York was re-elected secretary, and P. P. Corrick of Nebraska, sergeant-at-large.

The executive committee was in session practically all day mapping out plans for the convention. There were present Chairman George W. Perkins, State Chairman Walter A. Brown, H. L. Baker, of Illinois; A. Van Valkenburg, Pennsylvania; William Hamlin Childs, Harrisburg, and Henry L. Stoddard, New York, and Everett Collins, New Jersey. The unanimous sentiment of the committee was to abandon and nominate Roosevelt regardless of what the Republicans may do.

THREE STATES CLAIMED.

Kentucky, Colorado and Texas delegations to the Republican National Convention were claimed for Roosevelt by the Roosevelt Republican National Committee yesterday. Chairman George L. Von Meyer received messages from these States the Colorado headquarters is being filled by their delegates.

Former Post Commissioner McDougall Hawkes, many years Republican leader of the old Twenty-fifth Manhattan District, wrote Chairman Meyer:

You have done a patriotic service in organizing a movement among Republicans for Mr. Roosevelt's nomination. As a Republican, who supported Mr. Taft in 1912, I shall be glad to assist your organization.

Long-awaited Spring descended upon Boston today, and the crisis of the weather ceased their carping. At noon the official temperature at the top of the Federal building was 82 degrees, with the mercury still rising. It was the warmest day of the year.

The straw hat brigade was out in large numbers, with the ranks growing hourly. Suburban gardeners, too, were busy with the soil, and the weather seemed to be the best of all. The weather seemed to be the best of all. The weather seemed to be the best of all.

Miss Georgie Bacon, Urged to Head General Federation of Women

Miss Georgie Bacon, Worcester woman who is prominent at the convention of women's clubs in New York.

By HELEN HILLIT LOWRY.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.
New York, May 25.—With their convention formally opened, the many thousands of women delegates of the General Federation of Women's Clubs settled down today to work. The words of all were intent upon the coming election for president.
The "dark horse" candidate for the presidency was put in the field today by the Illinois delegation. She is Mrs. George Bass of Chicago, who was prominent in the struggle that gave the women the right to vote in Illinois. Illinois delegates declare that Mrs. Bass was a first-class compromise candidate.
Miss Georgie Bacon of Boston, who is mentioned by many as a logical candidate for the presidency, has up to the present positively refused to consider a nomination, and the convention is of the opinion of the state president that she will not alter her decision. Miss Bacon would draw many votes from the East and from New York particularly, which is refraining from submitting a candidate in conformity to its guards.
Miss Bacon has a wide popularity in the country. Mrs. J. Fitzgerald, State president of Georgia, explained that the death was open for the consideration of any candidate placed in the race.
The South said she "feels that it has been represented in Mrs. Pennington and that, therefore, it is not to consider broadmindedly the candidates from every other section of the country. Thus far it is hard to decide between the comparative merits of the candidates."
DIVIDED ON SUFFRAGE.
The suffrage issue is attracting interest next in importance to the presidential election. The suffrage leaders will attempt to put the federation formally on record as endorsing suffrage by admitting political clubs to the federation.
The more conservative element, however, even those who are ardent suffragists personally, believe that

STUBBORN FIRE FATHER FALLS TO IN NORTH END BUILDING

The failure of a sprinkler system to work properly, early today, caused a loss, according to the police, of $2500 by fire in the five-story, unoccupied brick building No. 166 Friend street, North End. The fire, which had gained much headway when discovered, gave the firemen a half hour's battle.
Damage, estimated by the police at $100, was later caused by another fire in the building in the rear of No. 165, Norfolk avenue, North End, which was killed when a navy airplane which he was piloting, dived 150 feet into the gulf. The machine was badly damaged.
The accident occurred just as he was ending a trial flight. His three little children saw him fall. He was sixty-nine years. He was born in Indiana and appointed to the service from Iowa.

Pennacola, Fla., May 25.—Lieutenant James Vincent Rockwell, a civil engineer in the United States army, who was in training as an aviator was killed when a navy airplane which he was piloting, dived 150 feet into the gulf. The machine was badly damaged.
The accident occurred just as he was ending a trial flight. His three little children saw him fall. He was sixty-nine years. He was born in Indiana and appointed to the service from Iowa.

We Want No Russian Police Methods in This Country

In the Case of Joseph J. Etor, the Lawrence Officials Must Not Break the Peace Under the Pretense of Keeping the Peace

IF it is true that Joseph J. Etor has been manhandled and slaughtered at Lawrence in violation of his constitutional rights in an impudent, un-American, dangerous scheme to drive him from the city of Lawrence, then it is time that the proper authorities punish the men who are guilty of a performance so reckless and lawless.

Mr. Etor is a man of attainments probably very much superior to the presumptions fellows who are charged with assaulting him. Nobody ever could challenge his personal honesty or the purity of his motives. Most of us disagree with the means by which he is seeking an end that all the honest and patriotic Americans are always seeking. When those means which he has adopted do come in conflict with the law we have the due process of law by which he may be punished.

No sensible body of men would stand between Mr. Etor and just, lawful and regular punishment for any offense which he may commit. But he is entitled to the full and equal protection of our laws, and it is in the interest and safety of the American citizens that he should get exactly that and nothing less, though nothing more.

Let this affair be fully investigated, and if anybody is guilty let him be punished so severely that his methods will not be attempted again, for what is done to Etor may at any time be done to any of us. We want no Russian police methods in this country.

Will the Senate Keep the Faith?

ONE of the promises that the Republican party made in its platform last year, in order to gain the support of the Progressives, was the promise to reduce the hours of labor in those industries that are obliged to continue their operations during all hours of the day and night.

Concerning this promise Governor McCall in his inaugural address said:

"In favor of a reasonable restriction in the hours of labor in industries continuously operated for twenty-four hours. Such industries are likely to be carried on by two shifts of men. They work alternately, sometimes thirteen hours in the day time one week, and eleven hours of night time the following week. These very long hours of labor, alternating between day and night, continued over a long period of time, are likely to grind down the vitality of the worker. More is exacted of the individual than he can in the long run be expected to do, and in just that extent his efficiency is decreased and he is ultimately worn out."

The bill to keep the party faith passed the House, but special interests have, as usual, concentrated the fight in the State Senate, where the bill is now lying at the point of death. Governor McCall very properly sends a special message in which he says:

"I therefore strongly urge upon you again the passage of a law which will fully keep faith with the people and deal with the condition to which I have referred in accordance with the humane spirit of the same."

Will the Senate keep the faith? Are they interested in the welfare of their party and of their fellow-citizens or do they prefer to wear the badge of some private interest? Will they follow the lead of their Governor or the lead of some captain of the lobby?

It Is MOTHER TIME, of Course

To Talk of FATHER TIME Is Silly

A N editorial recently spoke of "Mother Time." Miss Adelaide Johnson, writing from the Studio House, No. 37 West Twelfth street, New York city, asks:

"When, at what period, did Mother Time become Father Time?"

It has always been MOTHER TIME. For Time creates all things, gives birth to all things, is the MOTHER OF ALL THINGS.

To speak of FATHER TIME is simply another proof of man's foolish vanity.

Time is the mother of all men, of all things, of all great deeds.

She is the mother that is to last forever, and produce forever—new worlds, new suns, new milky ways, a completely changed universe—while she goes on forever, forever creating.

Father Time is simply a joke. There is no such thing as a day no attention to him.

More Truth Than Poetry

It Doesn't Always Work

From a Purely Personal Standpoint

Mr. Barnes says Mr. Roosevelt is more pernicious than Bryan. He certainly has done Mr. Barnes a lot more harm than Bryan ever did.

No Hope

Quit Claims

Letters from American Readers

THANKS FROM LETTER CARRIERS
EDITOR BOSTON AMERICAN.

Dear Sir—I desire of this time to express to you the thanks of the letter carriers of the Boston Postal District for the generous open you have accorded our annual reunion. I also wish to express my own appreciation of your kindly treatment of us as your representative while endeavoring to advance the interests of the union. Respectfully,
DANIEL L. CLIFFORD,
Chairman, Tree, if we are not ready for war we will be safe from war, that I have ever read. I do not see how any one can read your editorial and fail to see that our only safety is in being strong enough to guard our safety.

A SPECTACULAR EDITORIAL

Dear Sir—I wish to express my appreciation of your editorial on the coming preparedness parade. In my estimation it is the clearest and most illuminating answer to the "peace at any price" men, who say that if we are not ready for war we will be safe from war, that I have ever read. I do not see how any one can read your editorial and fail to see that our only safety is in being strong enough to guard our safety.

The Great Bear's Mighty Dipper

It Would Hold Oxtails of Earths and Sextillions of Suns, but Couldn't Dip Up the Milky Way, and Would Be Lost in the Bottomless Wells of Space

By Garrett P. Servis

"H OW much water would a dipper hold if built of the same dimensions as the 'Great Dipper,' which we see nightly in the northern sky?"

"MRS. R. A. H."

THAT is what I call a delightful question, instinct with imagination, yet not losing touch with the realm of fact. In order to answer it we must first make some estimates which cannot be taken as accurate, although well within the limits of probability, and understate rather than overstate.

The four stars forming the figure of the "Great Dipper" are Alpha, Beta, Gamma and Delta Ursa Majoris, their common designation, Ursa Majoris, being cast in the form of the aristocratic genitive of "Ursa Major."

To perform the calculation required, we must first know the distance of these stars from the earth. This has not yet been definitely ascertained, but as they are all four more or less in the same vicinity through space, it is a probable assumption that their respective distances are about equal, and we shall be clearly on the safe side of error if we call their common parallax one-fifth of a second of arc.

This corresponds to a distance of 55,000,000,000 miles, a round number. The establishment of this distance gives us the needed leverage for working our problem, and the rest will be as easy as "the rule of three."

The figure formed by the four stars represents a side view of the stars, in the form of a trapezoid, the upper line of which is about ten degrees in length, the lower line about eight degrees, while the height of the figure is five degrees. The upper and lower lines are not precisely parallel, but no serious error will be introduced if, for simplicity's sake, we assume them to be so.

The first step, now, is the transformation of these angular measurements into miles, using the distance from the earth as a basis for the calculation. Take the upper line of the figure, ten degrees in length. We know that the apparent, or angular, diameter of any object varies directly as its actual, or linear, diameter, and inversely as its distance.

Thus, if a line one foot long be placed so that its ends are at a distance of one foot from the eye, its apparent length will be halved, and so on.

Conversely, if the apparent length of a line is one degree we know that its distance is 57.3 times its actual, or linear, length. If the apparent length is ten degrees, the distance is 5.73 times its actual length.

Now stars marking the upper line of the celestial Dipper are ten degrees apart, and since their distance from us is 55,000,000,000 miles, it follows that the real distance between them is 3,000,000,000,000 divided by 5.73. This gives, for the length of the upper edge of the Dipper 525,000,000,000 miles, very nearly.

In-Shoots

A diet of onions will improve any child's complexion, but most of them prefer dog store tins.

A good many of us always seem to find a cork in the horn of plenty when it is turned in our direction.

It is not patriotism which acquires the title of patriotism.

Talk that will bridle is often as good as a real explanation.
